Rationale for M.A#3.

This assignment is like the other half of the previous assignment because all we're doing for this assignment is taking the information, we already have from assignment two and putting that information into three different genres. For the previous assignment, I wrote about the discourse community of soccer and I did interview some people to help me with my research. It's a broad topic I choose to work on, because soccer as a community is huge and it's one of the biggest international sport if not the biggest. There are multiple different reasons behind writing this research report paper. Some of the reasons are knowledge, Audience, love for the sport and the message I wanted to share with people.

First, I grew up watching and playing the sport so, I have knowledge about the sport. I have always been part of the soccer community. Also, I grew up following the sport internationally and I am still a fan and a follower. I still follow pretty much every soccer news, I know what's going on around the international soccer community. I keep my eyes open to everything within the soccer community. I didn't think it would be broad to talk about since all the information I would need to work on my research paper. I define knowledge as something you already know about a topic you're thinking about.

Second purpose was audience. Mainly, to teach people more about the community and share some knowledge. The reason I choose soccer is because worldwide, there isn't any other sport people are connected to then soccer, which means there will be bigger set of audience and my work can reach out to more people. Playing the sport isn't enough to be the member to international community because becoming an international soccer community member requires you to know what is going on around of soccer. Suppose you can't know about Major League Soccer (American league). You must know amount Bundisliga (German), Laliga (Spanish), Champions League (European) or Seria A (Italy) etc.

Since the sport I choose to write about is the biggest and has significant number of fans all over the world. It's important to have emotional appeal to the writing to grab the audiences attention till the end of my work.
